CANADIANS ON GUARD

Will Take Precautions Against Hostile Act When Parliament Opens

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—The dynamiting of the international bridge across the St. Croix river yesterday has led the authorities to take extra precautions to prevent a possible attack on the Canadian parliament buildings at the opening of the sessions of the legislative body tomorrow. The guards will be increased, and provided with ball cartridges.

The bridge incident has suggested to officials that some partisan nation hostile to Great Britain might take advantage of the presence of the Duke of Connaught, governor general of Canada, and attempt something unpleasant in the Canadian senate chamber.

The chief business of the session will be voting funds for the maintenance of the Canadian troops in the field and those now being raised and trained. It is understood the appropriation will be $100,000,000. There is also a war revenue bill expected to take the form of a stamp tax and increased customs charges against a number of necessities.

NOVEL FEATURES IN ELKS MINSTREL SHOW

Some Interesting Facts Pried Loose from You Jean Ready Well

Among the distinctly novel features in the second part of the Elks annual show, which takes place on the evenings of February 15 and 16, will be a number by Mrs. Robert Dunlap, who is said to have a most exquisite voice and possesses much stage charm. Her number will be one of the attractive late musical creations and in which she will be assisted by the well known baritone Archibald Reginald Gatter.

It is planned to make the olio part of the Minstrel Show an "all star" cast. Sir Isaac Newton Levy, who possesses much talent in character impersonations, will render one of the eastern successes just recently produced, entitled, "I Want to Be a Fireman". This number shows Mr. Levy at his best in the style of a "chappie boy", and those who have heard him go through the number pronounce it a perfect scream.

E. A. Trincano, or better known in the limelight as "Tiecano Trincano", will "put over" the very latest international song hit entitled "Sister Susie is Sewing Shirts for Soldiers". This number can only be rendered successfully by one who does not stammer, stutter or lisp, and as Mr. Trincano possesses none of these vocal defects, it will be with much pleasure that his hearers see him render this humorous selection. The show committee will offer a reward for anyone that will sing this song in a perfect manner at the second night's performance. This will give all aspirants the opportunity of attending the first night's performance of the same song, and learn the secret of its rendition which comes in the line, "saucy, soft, short shirts for soldiers that Sister Susie sews."

RECOVERS JUDGEMENT IN SUPERIOR COURT

Mrs. Suzanne Smith, recovered a judgment in the superior court yesterday against Theodore Guenther for $1,165.03, this being the full amount she sued for, alleging that the money was due her for service, and money loaned.

Mrs. Smith, who is the step daughter of Guenther, formerly worked as cashier in the cafe run by him. The cafe was thrown into bankruptcy some time ago, and the claim which Mrs. Smith presented was not allowed by the trustees in bankruptcy. All creditors were notified yesterday of the finding and entering of the decree of the jury.

Robt. S. Fisher represented Mr. Guenther and P. H. Hayes was the attorney for the plaintiff.

BLAZE ON ELKS STAGE CALL OUT ALL CREWS

Small Fire Originating in Dresser Full of Old Clothes; Mixed Alarms Sends Trucks Astray

Old clothes, greasy overalls and truck loaded into a dresser on the stage at the Elks theater caught fire and caused a general excitement among the crowd of the big fire trucks last night at 1:29 when an alarm got mixed and sent two of the autos into the south part of town. Number 3, the "Cinco Puntos" truck landed on the scene within a very short time after the watchmen, who sleeps in the basement had heard the crackle of flames and turned in the alarm.

A chemical tank cooking quieted the blaze very effectively and no great damage was wrought.

There was no explanation to be had of the cause of the little fire.

WILSON URGES CO-OPERATION Wants Help in Framing Laws For Benefit of all People

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH] WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Co-operation of business men and the government in framing laws for the benefit of all people was urged by the president to night in his address before the annual convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The president predicted while there was a shortage of food in the world now, the shortage would be much greater later.

He pointed out that under the guidance of the department of agriculture an effort must be made by the farmers of the United States to grow more grain in order that the world may be fed. Speaking of foreign trade in the United States, the president asked that business men devise some way of allowing exporters in the United States to combine to secure common selling agencies and to give long time credits in such a way that these co-operative devices will be open to the use of all.

TWO ENGLISHWOMEN LECTURING IN U. S.

Mrs. Havelock Ellis (top) and Miss Christabel Pankhurst.

In the interests of votes for women and the cause of international peace, two of England's most talked of women are now in the United States delivering lectures in the larger cities. Mrs. Havelock Ellis, the noted authoress, believes that international peace can be secured by education, and Miss Christabel Pankhurst urges votes for women as a preventive against future wars.

might not be effective in averting another filibuster from the republican side. Republican senators insist the bill cannot reach a vote this session. Should an effort to amend the bill, and return it within forty-eight hours succeed, they declare the republican attack will be resumed, and kept up until the measure is either withdrawn or killed by adjournment on March 2.

In their estimate of the situation tonight the democrats were counting upon Senator Norris to vote for their amendment to the recommitment motion. Senator Kanyon, whose support they had hoped for, will not be with them, nor will any of the seven insurgent democrats. Senator La Follette is regarded as certain, however, to vote with the democratic majority. Tomorrow Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, who has been absent because of illness, and Senator Smith of South Carolina, may return.

With these votes the leaders are hopeful that the bill may be recommitment with instructions for its return within a few hours with amendments to limit one year the terms for which the government under the proposed law might lease ships to private corporations, and to prohibit purchase of ships which might menace the neutrality of the country.

Republican senators admitted tonight that Senator Norris might vote for recommitment with instructions, but they agreed to an adjournment without attempting to force a night session, hoping that Senator Penrose might be able to reach Washington tomorrow to add one more to their side of the vote, should it be reached. With Senator Penrose over, they felt confident that they could recommit the bill without instructions. "We are through caucusing," said Senator Kern, the majority leader tonight, "and expect to make progress tomorrow. The shipping bill is not dead, by any means."

In denouncing his democratic colleagues, Senator Stone held the Senators through the lunch hour and attracted scores of the members of the house, who crowded into the rear of the room. He charged the seven members with open hostility to their party and declared that they had joined in an unholy alliance with the enemy. The Missouri senator also made a vigorous defense of President Wilson and the administration, asserting that he would rather follow his leadership than that of "Elithu Root, Henry Cabot Lodge, Theodore F. Burton, William Edgar Borah, Jacob Gallinger, or any recalcitrant alleged democrat who gets about with a dagger in his sleeve."

Senator Thomas of Colorado made a plea for a cloture rule in the senate, and asserted that without a change in the rules the senate would continue to be bound and shackled by filibusters.

Just before adjournment Senator White presented a telegram from the Alabama legislature announcing the adoption of a resolution by that body urging the passage of the ship bill. Senator Bankhead of Alabama was one of the seven democrats who joined the republicans.

Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia issued a statement declaring that he was opposed to kill the bill. "When the vice president ruled that the motion to recommit was out

ANNUAL REPORT OF INSPECTOR OF MINES

That falls of rock, premature explosions of blasts, and passing care were responsible for most of the fatal accidents in the mines of Arizona is shown in the report of State Mine Inspector G. H. Holln, for the year ending November 26, 1914. Copies of the report, which have just been printed, are now being mailed.

Inspector Holln's report, which contains much more than any former one, gives the number of men employed in the 55 mines at the last inspection at 9,422. Of this number 1917 were employed on the surface and 7,505 underground. There were 62 fatal accidents during the year and 758 serious and minor accidents. The list of mines inspected, the number of inspections made, number of men employed and tonnage per month are given in the report, as is also the method of operation and character of ore in each mine.

The Morgen Post, however, points out that many of the essentials of a blockade are lacking, among them being a definite description of the boundaries, as a warning that neutral ships must not enter the forbidden zone.

Senora E. G. de Riveros, beautiful wife of the former governor of the Mexican state of Sinaloa, and her sparkling-eyed and equally comely sister, Senorita Fanny Gaxiola, have arrived in San Francisco after a thrilling escape from the wrath of General Carranza. The Mexican chief was wrathful at the women because he disagreed with the policies of Governor de Riveros.
